New Videos Explore What's Special about the Transboundary Flathead

October 7, 2015

Greetings!

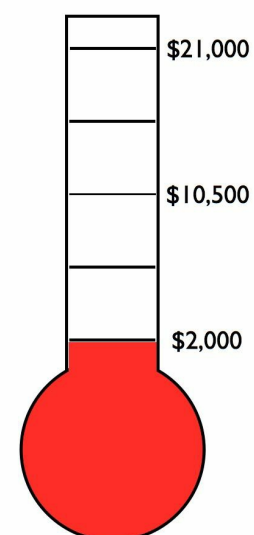

*A picture is worth a thousand words, and that seems about right.
What then is a video worth?*

The Flathead Wild Campaign has launched a series of short videos to continue to convey not just what makes the Transboundary Flathead such a special place, but why people have dedicated so much of their life to the effort to protect it.

Please check out the video below. It features Bob Peart, executive director of Sierra Club BC, one of our campaign Team members. Bob's been at conservation in British Columbia and other provinces over his work life. Some get struck by lightening and others, like Bob, get struck by wildflowers. The diversity and abundance of wildflowers in the Flathead held him to this place and to work for its protection.

If you haven't done so already, please visit the Flathead Wild website and join this campaign. We're getting closer each week to our goals and your direct show of support (and that of your family and friends - hint: please invite your friends using social media

Let's Raise the Temperature!

Headwaters Montana must raise $21,000 by the stroke of midnight, December 31, tools) is critical to demonstrating grassroots, public support for the park expansion and Wildlife Management Area goals.

And while at the Flathead Wild website, check out the growing library of other videos from some of our other friends. Once you sign up, Flathead Wild will deliver each new video directly to you.

Wildflower season in the Flathead has come and gone. But keep the memory alive over the winter months! And put snow in your thoughts now, as the seeds of next season's wildflowers need those deeply piled frosted crystals to be plentiful.

Cheers!
